MASSAGE

Care of the body and relaxation of the mind through massage is an ancient art, with its value proven over centuries for dispelling the cares and tensions of everyday life. Massage Therapy in all its forms has a role to play in many chronic conditions, such as arthritis.

Confidence returns, life improves and everyone around benefits. The therapist is primarily concerned with general massage, to bring about relaxation which eases physical and mental tension.

By altering the combination of movements a more stimulating effect can be created, which leaves the client feeling toned and invigorated, rather than relaxed and sleepy. Physiological benefits include; nourishment of the skin and all its structures, stimulation and well being.
